NO RETREAT FROM SANCTIONS

BRITISH NOTE TO ITALY

REITERATES FIRM STAND

FRENCH REPLY PROVES UNCOMPROMISING

London, Nov. 22.

The British reply to the Italian protest against the sanctions operations by the League of Nations powers had been despatched to Rome. It speaks of the constant anxiety at Geneva that the League's duties should be carried out in a spirit of impartiality. Britain maintains to have conceded the utmost possible weight to the legitimate interests of Italy and therefore feels that no useful purpose would be served by reopening the discussion of the questions raised in the Italian note.

Strong as were the feelings of friendship towards Italy, the Government of the United Kingdom felt bound to assent to the League's decisions and accept the inevitable consequences.

The note expressed Britain's anxiety to facilitate, as a member of the League, the earliest possible settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute.

The note adds that the Government, in subscribing to the League Covenant, had not abandoned or renounced its own free sovereign judgment, but undertook to exercise it in accordance with its obligations under the League Covenant. No other attitude was open to them and they naturally desired to see the Italian Government place a similar construction upon their adherence to the Covenant, the British authorities declared.—Reuter.

ROME DISAPPOINTED

Rome, Nov. 22.
The Italian Government is disappointed at the uncompromising tone of the British reply to Italy's sanctions note, yet the response is virtually what Italy expected.

It is pointed out that Italy at least gained the point that replies should not be collective and that each Government takes its own responsibility for the application of sanctions.

The claim that Britain is only fulfilling her duties under the Covenant has been greeted with impatience by the Italians who ask why, in that case, should Britain allow Japan to nibble off bits of China.—Reuter.

FRENCH REPLY

Paris, Nov. 22.
The French note in reply to the Italian sanctions protest states that despite France's sentiments of friendship towards Italy it was not in the power of the French Government to reject the League of Nations finding that Italy was the aggressor in the Ethiopian war.

To fail to fulfil her obligations under the Covenant would have compromised the possibility of future applications of the provisions constituting the essential element of collective security, France holds. Until settlement of the conflict ends the measures prescribed by the Covenant, none of the sanctions concerning Italy can be regarded as a hostile act, France argues.

The note renews the hope for an early settlement of the dispute in Ethiopia but does not answer Italy's direct question with regard to how the French Government intends to act regarding coercive measures proposed against Italy, which was generally regarded as a shaft aimed to split the sanctionist countries.—Reuter.

U. S. NAVAL POLICY

Warm Springs (Ga.), Nov. 22.
President Roosevelt informed pressmen at a conference to-day that the construction of new battleships allowed under existing treaties would be temporarily suspended, but naval personnel would be gradually increased to 100,000 men.—Reuter.

(Special to "Telegraph")
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages, Ordinance, 1931. Received, November 22, 6.15 a.m.)

New York, Nov. 22.
Mr. E. F. Hutton, chairman of the General Foods Corporation, issued a statement to-day disavowing the recent article in Utility Magazine suggesting that business "gang up" on the United States Administration.

He said he had written the article in the summer, when he and others feared confiscatory legislation. Later his attitude had changed entirely.

He said he felt the utility companies had a right to fight against hostile legislation but he disapproved some of their methods and he regards their refusal to register a mistaken action.—United Press.

MEETING ATTACK

Washington, Nov. 22.
The Government has met attacks upon the Wheeler-Rayburn bill's constitutionality with threats of civil suits to force compliance.

The Securities Exchange Commission issued a statement to-day saying: "In the event of a general failure to register, the Commission will promptly bring civil proceedings against the important companies to force compliance and will seek the Supreme Court's decision sustaining the act's validity."

"No possible ground remains for any company to fail to file registration, as this is sheer precaution and protection to investors."

Simultaneously, the S. E. C. assured the holding companies that constitutional rights were not waived by registration. The Attorney-General, Mr. Homer Cummings, has instructed the United States attorney against the holding companies refusing to register. Civil penalties include the prohibition of the use of the mails, and prevention of the issuance of new securities.—United Press.

OCEAN BASES "ALL SET"

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages, Ordinance, 1931. Received, November 22, 6.10 a.m.)

Alameda, Nov. 22.
The Pan-American Airways Clipper plane took off for Manila to-day on the inauguration of the regular trans-Pacific air service. She rose from the harbour here at 3.46 p.m. local time.

The Postmaster General of the United States, Mr. James Farley, read a letter from President Roosevelt at the opening of the ceremonies which marked the China Clipper's departure. President Roosevelt sent "congratulations from an air-minded sailor."

The departure of the plane marked the 100th anniversary of the arrival of the first clipper ship at San Francisco and "the years between mark an unparalleled century of progress," wrote the President.

Mr. Farley, in a brief speech, pointed out that the new service brings Asia to within five days' travelling distance of the United States.

"I anticipate that friendly relations and commerce with the Orient will be strengthened," he said.

He forecast an air mail service to Europe within eighteen months.

QUEZON'S MESSAGE

A message from Senator Manuel Quezon, President of the Philippines Commonwealth, was received by radio broadcast. "The service brings the dawn of a brighter age," he said.

From Hawaii came the words of another statesman over the radio: "It will hasten the eventual full statehood of Hawaii."

Senator McAdoo, Mr. Harlee Branch, Assistant Postmaster-General, Senator Hiram Johnson, Governor Merriam of California, all sent congratulations over the radio.

Mr. Juan Trippe, President of the Pan-American Airways, praised the co-operation of the Pan-American Airways and its associates throughout the world.

BASES ALL SET

The Pan-American Airways bases at Honolulu, Wake, Guam and Manila, all reported by radio that they were "all set" to receive the first of the trans-Pacific planes. That was a signal!

The China Clipper's mighty motors roared and she smoothly rose and rushed out to sea on her epochal journey.—United Press.

FINE SEND-OFF

San Francisco, Nov. 22.
A hundred thousand people cheered and bands played as the huge air mail clipper circled the Golden Gate and shot out to sea to inaugurate a regular air service to Manila.

President Roosevelt sent a message expressing the heartfelt congratulations of an air-minded sailor at the thrilling achievement of Americans blazing new trails (Continued on Page 16.)

BRITISH SUPPORT FOR FRANC

EXCHANGE MARKETS QUIETENED

HEAVY LOSS OF GOLD

London, Nov. 22.

Foreign exchange quietened to-day, owing to the energetic intervention of British control in support of the franc. Nevertheless, an underlying feeling of nervousness is most apparent.

A Paris message says it is estimated that the Bank of France lost gold valued at 1,200,000,000 francs during the week ended to-day, while Amsterdam believes that the Netherlands Bank lost between five and ten million guilders in gold to America yesterday and to-day.

Despite Amsterdam assertions to the contrary, London feels that the

20,000 Watch Slowly Moving Destroyer Hilo (Hawaii)

Nov. 22.

Twenty thousand inhabitants of Hilo are fearfully watching the approach of a stream of lava thirteen miles long from the volcano Maunaloa, the eruption of which has been followed by an earthquake and a tidal wave.

The red glow from the volcano is visible from all parts of the island, and scientists are hurriedly organising expeditions to its peak in order to locate the point of eruption.—Reuter.

The guild is bound to follow in the wake of the franc should the latter be devalued, but it is generally felt that the franc and the Laval Government will survive the present crisis.—Reuter.

FEDERAL RESERVES

New York, Nov. 22.
The Federal Reserve reports the member banks' excess reserves as $3,070,000,000.

Gold Stocks have increased by $57,000,000 to $9,804,000,000. The ratio of reserves to note deposit liabilities is 76.8 per cent as compared with 76.2 per cent last week.—United Press.

BUDGET CONFERENCE

BRITISH CABINET CHANGES

BOTH MACDONALDS REMAIN

DUFF COOPER WAR MINISTER

London, Nov. 22.

The following Cabinet changes were announced to-day:

Secretary for the Dominions, Mr. Malcolm MacDonald; Secretary for the Colonies, Mr. J. H. Thomas; Secretary for War, Mr. Alfred Duff Cooper.

Mr. W. S. Morrison has been appointed Financial Secretary to the Treasury.—Reuter.

STAY IN CABINET

Although defeated at the last election, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, former Labour Prime Minister, remains Lord President of the Council. His son, Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, also defeated, has been given the portfolio of Dominions' Secretary. However, since they were defeated, they must either be elevated to the peerage or jockeyed into the House of Commons before Parliament meets.

Mr. J. H. Thomas' appointment as Colonial Secretary was a surprise. Mr. Alfred Duff Cooper as Secretary for War and Mr. W. S. Morrison as Financial Secretary to the Treasury were also unexpected.—United Press.

UNEXPECTED

London, Nov. 22.
The exchange of offices between Mr. Malcolm MacDonald and Mr. J. H. Thomas has occasioned surprise in political circles, where it is felt by the body of Conservative opinion that Mr. Thomas has not been too popular with the Dominions and should hold some other office.

The fact that the Dominions Office has always been regarded as a senior post means that a seat must be found in Parliament for Mr. MacDonald, who may possibly be put up at the combined Scottish Universities by-election.

A most interesting suggestion with regard to the change of offices is that Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister, is endeavouring to settle the differences with the Irish Free State, in which Mr. Thomas has invariably been most uncompromising, and there was little hope of any accommodation from Mr. Eamon de Valera, the President of the Free State, as long as Mr. Thomas occupied the Dominions Secretaryship. Mr. MacDonald, on the other hand, is regarded as a likelier man to bring about an agreement.—Reuter.

ITALIAN COLUMN TRAPPED

ETHIOPIANS FIRE FROM AMBUSH

CLAIM SEVERE DEFEAT INFLICTED

Addis Ababa, Nov. 22.

A communique issued to-day claims a decisive victory for Ethiopian troops near Makale. The Italians, it is stated, retreated in disorder after a furious fight.

The Italian column was making a forced march from Makale in a north-westerly direction when Ethiopian troops, who had been lying in wait for it in places of concealment, suddenly made their appearance. They opened fire with machine-guns and rifles.

From the shelter of boulders and shrubs they poured a devastating torrent of bullets into the Italian ranks.

Hand-to-hand fighting followed. The Italians' commanding officer was killed and a number of his troops were left on the field when the column commenced to retreat, its men in disorder, heading for Agula.—Reuter.

DOUBLE-BARREL POLICY

ADMINISTRATION'S ENDEAVOURS

TRADE AND PEACE

(Special to "Telegraph")

Washington, Nov. 22.
The appeal by Mr. Harold Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, to oil producers to cease selling to belligerents, coupled with Mr. Cordell Hull's statement that the oil protests received against the Canadian reciprocity agreement are from "professional partisan politicians or specially privileged individuals benefitting from excessive tariffs," comprise a perfect exposition of the Administration's double-barrelled policy, namely, to restore peace where war exists through discouraging trade with belligerents, to maintain friendly relations with peaceful nations, and to encourage trade by all practical means, including a general worldwide reduction of artificial trade barriers.

Mr. Cordell Hull said world conditions would compel the United States to "seek a restoration of foreign markets, otherwise we must abandon the idea of increasing sales surpluses and move along the pathway of registration, production, transportation and distribution."—United Press.

UNFAIR REQUEST

Washington, Nov. 22.
The major oil companies are reluctant to discuss their trade with Italy. However, they feel that the request of Mr. Harold Ickes, Minister for the Interior, to halt all shipments, is unfair and unreasonable, as far as American interests are concerned.

They point out that England is leading the sanctions move but she is also selling oil to Italy. However, they intimated that most of the oil being shipped to Italy was sold by small independent concerns, although some of the major companies were shipping in order to fulfil old contracts.—United Press.

NEW CLIPPER SAILS

Miami, Nov. 22.
The Philippines Clipper, sister ship to the China Clipper which inaugurates the Pacific service to-day, has left for Alameda.—United Press.

New Military Attache

MAJOR-GENERAL F. S. G. PIGGOTT

London, Nov. 22.

Major-General F. S. G. Piggott, D.S.O., eldest son of the late Sir Francis Piggott, former Chief Justice of Hongkong, has been appointed Military Attache to the British Embassy in Tokyo, in succession to Colonel James, effective as from May 6 next.

Major-General Piggott, who has been Deputy Military Secretary at the War Office since 1930, has previously served in the Far East. He was specially employed at Tokyo during the Russo-Japanese War in 1904-06, was attached to the British Embassy in Tokyo from 1910 to 1913, and was Military Attache there from 1921 to 1926.

He saw much service in the Great War, in Egypt and France, and received several decorations.—Reuter.

CARRYING OIL TO ITALIANS

San Pedro, Nov. 22.

Despite Mr. Cordell Hull's warning that crews of freighters with war supplies destined for the Italo-Ethiopian war zone would travel at their own risk, the freighter Oregon has sailed for Italian Somaliland with a cargo of 36,000 drums of aviation petrol.

The ship carries a non-Union crew, unionists having refused to sail, although offered a fifty per cent. bonus.—Reuter.

ARTILLERY COLONEL CASTIGATED

DECREE AGAINST MAJOR'S WIFE

"SEEMS RATHER DREADFUL" SAYS
DIVORCE JUDGE

"It seems rather dreadful that a colonel in the Royal Artillery should be committing adultery with a brother officer's wife," said Mr. Justice Bucknill, in the Divorce Court this month.

He granted a decree nisi to Major Christopher George Cardew, of the Royal Engineers, living at Compton Road, Wimbledon, against Mrs. Beatrice Edith Cardew, on the ground of her misconduct with Lieutenant-Colonel Joseph Vernon Jenner Ellis.

The suit was not defended. Major and Mrs. Cardew were married at Ampthill, Bedfordshire, in March 1918, and afterwards lived in Poona, India. There are no children.

Major Cardew's case was that he and his wife met Colonel Ellis on the boat when returning to England from India in January, 1931, and they became friendly.

In 1934 all three spent holidays together on short leaves in India.

Last April they came to England. Mrs. Cardew travelled ahead of her husband, who, on arrival in London, received a letter from her stating that she was in love with Colonel Ellis.

She was alleged to have stayed with the Colonel at an hotel at Staines last April.

Costs were awarded against Colonel Ellis.

He Goes To Bed For The Winter

Watertown, Wisc., Nov. 10.
ARTHUR E. (TURKEY) GEHRKE, tucked his 215 pounds into a long, white nightie this autumn and went to bed for the winter.

Turkey, who is 53, and who runs a tavern here isn't sick; he hibernates every winter just like the bears. He's been doing it for nearly 20 years.

"We were married in the summer 20 years ago and Turkey went to bed in October," his wife, Grace said.

"The first year he stayed in bed only a couple of weeks. The next year it was a month and after that he stayed in bed all winter. He generally gets up in time for Easter.

"He never gets his hair cut and he never shaves. He really looks a grizzly bear when he comes out. It used to make me kind of mad but now I don't mind. When he's in bed I'm boss of the tavern."

Only on rare occasions has Turkey been enticed out of bed. Once the barn next door caught on fire and the neighbours started yelling.

"Hey, Turkey, the barn's on fire. It's spreading to your house."

But Turkey didn't bite on that one.

"I could see it wasn't going to spread," he said.

"One New Year's eve," Grace said, "the boys were having a big party. One of them called and said they wanted Turkey to be master of ceremonies."

"You didn't let 'em fool you, did you, Turkey?" she called to her husband in another room.

But Turkey was fast asleep.—United Press.

SUICIDE SQUAD KEEP WATCH ON HAUPTMANN

New York, Nov. 10.
Suicide guards are watching in the cell where Bruno Richard Hauptmann, killer of the Lindbergh baby, sits with the shadow of "the chair" upon him.

BRUNO HAUPTMANN
The shadow of "the chair" is upon him.

He will probably be executed before Christmas. Warden Mark Kimberlin, of Trenton Prison, is making certain that the German carpenter shall not cheat the law.

Doctors had warned him that Hauptmann might try to kill himself. So to-day he posted his suicide squad.

The guards have been warned not to let Hauptmann out of their sight for a moment.

Armed men patrol the roof of the death house to prevent any possible attempt at escape.

Next month, if the Supreme Court appeal fails, Justice Trenchard will re-sentence Hauptmann.

Thirty to sixty days later the law will take its course.

Another Gold Reef On The Rand

Johannesburg, Nov. 15.
The existence of a great new gold reef, at a depth of 10,000ft., and running the full extent of the present reef along the Witwatersrand, is announced by Mr. Hans Pirow, the South African Government mining engineer and brother of Mr. Oswald Pirow, Minister of Defence.

He estimated the value of the gold in the newly discovered reef which is 2,500ft below the deepest mine now being worked on the Rand, at £280,000,000.

The Witwatersrand is already the world's greatest goldfield. It stretches over several hundreds of miles. The gold-bearing area, however, is confined to a string of mines forming the rim of the basin for about 70 miles from Randfontein to the Sui Ngiel, near Heidelberg.

The new reef, according to Mr. Pirow, is capable of yielding 200,000,000 tons of ore.

Hitherto it has not been possible to work mines below 7,500ft—the depth of Village Deep. The temperature and the humidity make conditions impossible. Village Deep had a special cooling system introduced last year.

Recent researches, however, have proved that it will be possible shortly to sink shafts to 10,000ft—the depth at which, according to the geological formation, the new reef lies.

OLYMPIC SALE NEXT MONTH

LUXURY FURNISHING AND EQUIPMENT

One of the biggest maritime auction sales ever held will take place next month when the entire equipment of the 46,000-ton Cunard-White Star liner Olympic is auctioned by Messrs. Thos. W. Ward, Ltd., at their wharf at Palmers Works, Jarrow-on-Tyne.

The sale comprises the furnishings of 530 staterooms and cabins, including the magnificent panelling in carved mahogany, inlaid with mother of pearl, satinwood, walnut, and sycamore of the smoking-rooms, drawing-rooms, and dining saloons; the fittings of over 500 bathrooms in marble and porcelain; and equipment of the Turkish and swimming baths, squash courts and gymnasiums, and so forth.

Transport Ship Housewives will have the opportunity of securing many a bargain when the equipment of the kitchens is put up for sale.

It is more than likely that many former passengers of the Olympic will attend the sale.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST SCIENTIST*SOUL AND BODY SUBJECT FOR TO-MORROW

"Soul and Body" will be the subject of the Lesson Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, to-morrow.

The Golden Text will be: The Lord is good unto them that wait for him, to the soul that seeketh him. (Lamentations 3:25).

Among others, the following citations from the Bible will be read: "And there came a leper to him, beseeching him, and kneeling down to him, and saying unto him, If thou wilt, thou canst make me clean. And Jesus, moved with compassion, put forth his hand, touched him, and said, Be thou clean. And as soon as he had spoken, immediately the leprosy departed from him, and he was cleaned." (Mark 40-42).

The Lesson Sermon will also include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scripture" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Healing the sick and reforming the sinner are one and the same thing in Christian Science. Both cures require the same method and are inseparable in Truth. Hatred, envy, dishonesty, fear, and so forth, make a man sick, and neither material medicine nor Mind can help him permanently, even in body, unless it makes him better mentally, and so delivers him from his destroyers. Become conscious for a single moment that life and intelligence are purely spiritual—neither in nor of matter, and the body will then utter no complaints. If suffering from a belief in sickness, you will find yourself suddenly well. Sorrow is turned into joy when the body is controlled by spiritual life, Truth, and Love." (Page 404 and 14).

Cairo, Nov. 1.

The Duke of Westminster arrived at Cairo to-day on his way to Suez to rejoin his luxurious yacht, the Cutty Sark.

From Suez he will sail through the Canal to the Red Sea. There he intends to do some fishing from his yacht. Perhaps he will then visit the Far East.

"And," he said, "I may visit Abyssinia, although I would not like to add to the crush of foreigners in Addis Ababa. I hear the crush is now acute."

"My movements are uncertain. I must be back in Cairo within a fortnight. That does not give me much time."

Airmen Will Fly Into
The Unknown

New York, Nov. 15.

Richard Archbold, explorer, will lead an aerial expedition into the Fly and Palmer Rivers region of New Guinea, for the American Museum of Natural History early in 1936.

F. Trubbe Davison, president of the American Museum, said the two major objectives of the expedition will be:

1. To penetrate into one of the least-known regions on earth, the mountainous and inaccessible interior of British New Guinea immediately north of the intersection of the Fly and Palmer Rivers to collect birds, mammals, and other natural history specimens.

2. To explore by air the vast area of thinly wooded plains in the Fly River region, an area of some 6,000 square miles about which virtually nothing is known.

G. H. H. Tate, assistant curator of Mammals, of the Museum, and Dr. Alvin L. Rand, ornithologist, will accompany Archbold. The party's Fairchild Amphibian special plane, equipped with a 750 horse power Wright Cyclone Engine, will be piloted by Russell Rogers and by Archbold.

The plane has a cruising radius of 750 to 780 miles. Its speed is 135 miles per hour at an altitude of 8,000 feet. Its maximum altitude is 18,000 feet. Its licensed payload is 1,000 pounds plus the additional load of two pilots and the equivalent of eight passengers.

Fly From Australia

Archbold said that the four plan to leave the United States about January 1 by steamer for Sydney or Brisbane to the island of Daru, which is within a few miles of the coastline of British New Guinea.

"We expect to be at Daru and ready for operations toward the end of March or sometime in April," said Archbold. "Our first effort will be to make a series of aerial surveys of the plains and rivers as well as the mountain regions to determine the most accessible way of approach. We hope to discover lakes or open stretches big enough for our amphibian plane to land upon and also sites that are easily identified on the ground where we can dump supplies for the ground expedition which will work its way into the wilderness afoot."

No Forehand Knowledge

"We have absolutely no forehand knowledge to go by. So far as we have been able to determine only two white men, members of a British patrol, have ventured into the region. They reported the natives friendly. Very little is known of the natives of this particular section. Their cultural development has been so sluggish that they are still in the Stone Age in that their implements are made of stone and wood."

The ground party, Archbold said, will consist of Rand, Tate, and an Australian botanist whose name is Brass.

"We can overcome even the most adverse conditions," said the explorer. "Our plane is equipped with a special cargo chute from which food and other supplies attached to parachutes will be dropped by means of a releasing device to the ground expedition. The parachutes are designed to carry weights of about 100 pounds."

"According to our present plans we expect the initial penetration to cover the distance the ground party can travel in from six to eight days. We are limited in distance by the amount of food our packers can carry because we are not positive that the airplane can find the ground party except at given points along the route."

"One of the special problems in connection with the expedition is that of maintaining communication between the ground organization and the base at Daru with the plane while it is in the air."—United Press.

The duke left London a week ago. With him was his valet. Their passports were issued for Abyssinia, but both said they did not know whether they would go there.

Even now the duke repeated that he was still uncertain about it.

He talked instead of his exploits during the war when he fought Arab tribesmen in Western Egypt.

The duke was sent to Egypt in March 1916 in command of a fleet of armoured cars. He won the D.S.O. when he led his fleet in a spectacular dash through 150 miles of desert to attack the Senusai Arabs.

The Duke married for the third time in February 1930. The present Duchess was formerly Miss Louisa Ponsonby, only daughter of Sir Frederick Ponsonby, G.C.B.

The Duke is aged fifty-six; his wife is aged thirty-two.

Women's Heroism
At Quetta*GENERAL KARSLAKE'S GLOWING TRIBUTE

"Thank God we had Karslake here!" That, said Field-Marshal Sir Claud Jacob, was the heartfelt exclamation of one who was in Quetta at the time of the earthquake.

Sir Claud Jacob, who spent nearly forty years in the Indian Army, was the Chairman at a lecture delivered recently at the Royal United Service Institution in London by Major-General H. Karslake, on the work of the Army after the Quetta earthquake. General Karslake is the Commander of the Baluchistan District (Quetta), and in his audience were officers who had done heroic relief work. They included Brigadier C. N. F. Broad, whose Brigade (4th Infantry Brigade, Quetta) was engaged in night operations when the catastrophe occurred.

General Karslake spoke highly of the rescue work by British troops quartered in Quetta and of Indian units, especially the Sikhs and Hazara Pioneers (of which unit Sir Claud Jacob was Colonel for many years). The earthquake took place about 3 a.m. and within a few seconds thousands of men, women and children had been killed or seriously injured.

Officers' Wives

All the women in the city did exceptional work. Lord Kitchener once said that it was wrong for officers to marry. The lecturer thanked God that there were married officers in Quetta, for he did not know what they would have done without the help of the wives of officers and other women who survived the disaster. About 7,000 troops were actively at work immediately the disaster happened, and before long approximately 12,000 were searching the debris for the injured and the bodies of the dead. He could not praise too highly the efforts of both the British and Indian soldiers.

The disposal of the dead was a great problem. They could not dig a hole and bury the bodies irrespective of whether they were Hindus or Mohammedans. The religion of one caste called for burial and the other for cremation. About 14 tons of wood were required to burn 4,000 bodies.

The refugees were placed in a camp on the racecourse, where the problem of sanitation was considerable. The Sappers and the Sanitary Sections, however, got over that difficulty so successfully that the refugees, because of the ordered cleanliness, "did not know whether it was Sunday or Christmas Day."

The work in the hospitals continued at high pressure day and night, with such good effect that all danger of an epidemic was avoided.

"There is no Army in the world," General Karslake concluded, "that can touch the Army in India."

2. Controversy will probably rage about this battle for generations to come, but until a narrative compiled from British records is published, criticism must be withheld. Regarded simply as a battle the result was indecisive, the enemy inflicting greater losses on us than he suffered, and regaining his ports with the bulk of his forces. The German losses were: Luttwg, Pommern, Wiesbaden, Rostock, aftermath of the battle. On the other hand, it is argued that Jellicoe's policy of "safety first", though successful in the long run, prolonged the war: enabled the enemy to develop his submarine campaign, sink about five and a half million tons of British, Allied, and neutral shipping, and cost the Battle to us: and prevented the resources of the Clyde and Tyne being utilised for the production of merchant shipping.

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

Dashell Hammett's "The Glass Key," a worthy successor to his phenomenally popular "The Thin Man" is the next attraction at the Queen's Theatre. With George Raft in the starring role and Edward Arnold, Claire Dodd, Rosalind Keith and Charles Richman featured, the picture finds an ingenious solution to a murder that threatens to blow up the political structure of a big city. Edward Arnold, the city's political boss, is supporting Charles Richman for a senatorial post when the latter's son is killed. Rumour lays the responsibility for the murder at Arnold's door. Arnold is in the throes of an autumnal love for the boy's sister, the boy has killed Arnold's own daughter and will not be ready to testify that the two were seen arguing. Only Raft, Arnold's trusted friend and henchman believes in the politician's innocence. To find the murderer Raft pretends to co-operate with Arnold's enemies, is caught and subjected to fiendish torture. He escapes without solving the murder. Then, just as he is about to give up the pursuit as a bad job, he stumbles on the clue that leads to the person least suspected. The climax of the film shows Raft trapping the criminal into a confession, clears Arnold and wins the love of his daughter. Frank Tuttle directed the picture which also features Guinn "Big Boy" Williams and Tammany Young.

"The Black Room"

"The Black Room," Columbia's contribution to the realm of eerie mystery which stars the inimitable Boris Karloff, comes to the Alhambra on Saturday. The story deals with the tyrannical and sinister rule of a fiendish Baron somewhere in mid-Europe during the early nineteenth century. Marian Marsh, Robert Allen, Katherine DeMille, Thurston Hall and Henry Kolker are featured in the supporting cast.

"The Bishop Misbehaves"

A windshield for a camera was the unusual device resorted to by studio technicians to permit an actor to throw a box of snuff at the lens. This was the odd expedient employed in "The Bishop Misbehaves," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's whimsical comedy-mystery coming on Tuesday to the King's Theatre. In the amusing story of the bishop who turns detective, Edmund Gwenn, playing the mystery-solving Bishop, has to halt four crooks by throwing snuff in their faces. In the close-up it had to be directed at the camera. A piece of plate glass was used to keep it out of the delicate lenses and mechanism. Other unusual tricks were employed by technicians in filming the comical story. The new picture, directed by E. A. Dupont, noted European director, is based on Fred Jackson's successful stage play, and brings to the screen Edmund Gwenn, one of England's best known characters, as the misbehaving Bishop. Maureen O'Sullivan, Norman Foster, Lucille Watson, Arthur Treacher and Charles McNaughton are among the principal players. The story deals with an amateur robbery, staged to get even with a swindler, and a benevolent old Bishop with a penchant for reading detective stories, who applies his fiction-inspired lore to the unravelling of the crime, with ludicrous results.

Bing Crosby in "Mississippi"

Paramount's "Mississippi" showing at the Oriental Theatre on Sunday and Monday is packed with comedy, song and romance. Bing Crosby heads the cast, starring with Joan Bennett and W. C. Fields, the dean of comedians. Crosby takes the part of a Yankee youth, unfamiliar with the ways of the old South, who declines to fight for the hands of his sweetheart, Gail Patrick. Branded as a coward he seeks refuge on Fields' showboat as a singing attraction, and under Fields' tutelage becomes the most feared gunfighter on the river. When about to return and plight his troth again with Gail Patrick he finds himself in love with her sister, Joan Bennett, a girl who does not want her man to fight and so Crosby is faced with the problem of restoring his good reputation. Crosby introduces four new songs as well as a special arrangement of that old favourite "Swanee." He is assisted in his singing by Queenie Smith, star of Broadway musical comedy stage, and the Five Colours. John Milgan, Claude Gill-water and Fred Kohler take the principal feature roles.

"George White's 1935 Scandals"

Stardom burst upon platinum-blonde Alice Faye, she of the doll-like complexion and sophisticated air who is one of the ten stars of "George White's 1935 Scandals," now at the Star Theatre. It happened without premeditation. During the making of the first edition of the rollicking "Scandals," of which the coming one is the follow-up Miss Faye reached Hollywood to do a song and dance number. One screen test convinced Fox Film studio executives that here was stellar timber. Instantly Miss Faye was shoved up as a leading lady, and was treading the heights. The rest is screen history. Miss Faye's appeal registered distinctly in "Now I'll Tell You," "Mrs. Arnold Rothstein," "She Learned About Sailors," and "365 Nights in Hollywood." Now in the 1935 edition of the Scandals she shares honours with such stage and screen aces as James Dunn, Ned Sparks, Lyda Roberti, Cliff Edwards, Arline Judge, Eleanor Powell, Emma Dunn, Benny Rubin and George White. In "George White's 1935 Scandals" Miss Faye sings these song hits, specially composed for the picture: "According to the Moonlight," "Hunkadola" and "Oh I Didn't Know You'd Get That Way." They have become popular overnight wherever heard, and have "It's An Old Southern Custom," "I Got Shoes You Got Shoesies," and "I Was Born Too Late." The melodies are the work of Jack Yellen, Joseph Moyer, and Cliff Friend, with additional lyrics by Herb Magidson, all four top-notch song writers of the day.

"In Caliente"

Carrying the torch for a new ball-room dance rhythm which seriously threaten the hold that the fox-trot has held on the dancers of America for a decade, Antonio and Renee DeMarco, famous tapershor-can team, invaded Hollywood. In the first National screen musical "In Caliente" which opens at the Queen's Theatre to-day, they make their film debut. Along with motion pictures as their most potent ally, the DeMarcos intend, they say, to continue their invasion of the fox-trot territory which they started in New York when they starred at the new Persian Room in the Hotel Plaza. There are some beautiful dance numbers—"In Caliente" and "Lady In Red" specialties done by the DeMarco team. "In Caliente" combines romance, comedy and drama. There is an all star cast which includes Dolores Del Rio, Pat O'Brien, Leo Carrillo, Edward Everett Horton, Glenda Farrow, Phil Regan, Dorothy Dare, Winifred Shaw, the DeMarcos and The Canova Family. Lloyd Bacon directed the picture from the screen play by Jerry Wald and Julius Epstein, based on the story by Ralph Block and Warren Duff.

"The Scoundrel"

When Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur began production of pictures in Astoria, L. I., they counted on being able to draw on New York's stage talent for their pictures. But they had not anticipated using players who would appear on stage and in films simultaneously. That's where the rub occurred. In the new Hecht-MacArthur film, "The Scoundrel," starring Noel Coward, and now at the King's Theatre, three of the principal players were active in Broadway productions while they were engaged in the film. They are Stanley Ridges who played one of the leading roles in Maxwell Anderson's "Valley Forge"; Ernest Cossart who played Coward's secretary in the film, and the butler in the hit, "Accent on Youth"; and Evelyn Gregg, who was active in Noel Coward's own play, "Point Valaine." Because of this variety of jobs, schedules on the picture had to be worked out to dovetail precision. Written, directed and produced by Hecht and MacArthur, "The Scoundrel" is a brilliant and ironical picture of the decadence of New York's smart literary set. Noel Coward, in his film debut, plays the principal character, a suave, conscienceless philanderer who treats love and loyalty with contempt and who can find no mercy for himself when the inevitable hour of retribution comes.

Superstition Of Scots' Villages

HOTELS DON'T HAVE
No. 13 ROOMS

That superstition has lasted longer in the village of St.
Monance, Fife, than anywhere else, was a statement made by the Rev. A. Renshaw Mackay, Kirkcaldy, in the course of an address delivered to Cupar Rotary Club
recently.

A short time ago, he said, he spoke to a minister from St.
Monance, who told him that every time the village children met him
they ran to the nearest raillings, shouting "Touch could iron."

Another minister was attracting large numbers by his eloquent preaching in St. Monance, until he preached on the Gaderene swine.

Upon mention of the word
"swine" there was a murmur
throughout the congregation
"touch could iron." Second mention of the word led the congregation to feel for the heads of nails underneath their seats. Upon the word "swine" being mentioned for the third time, the congregation rose and walked out. Evidently ministers and pigs in St. Monance were regarded as unlucky, and the way to avoid ill-luck was to "touch could iron."

He thought that while superstition might to some extent be regarded as a joke, it was very firmly embedded in this modern age.

Many superstitions—relics of the cave man—were universal.
Friday was an unlucky day for sailors to set out on a voyage, yet it was regarded in Scotland as a particularly lucky day on which to get married.

"Unlucky" 13

It they went into certain hotels they would find that no room was marked "13"—14 or 12A followed.
At a whist drive there was no table 13, because people—not necessarily nervous old ladies—would not sit at that table. Most widespread of all was the desire not to sit down to a meal with 13 at the table.

"That," he said, "is a tribute to the caveman's ignorance."

Mr. Mackay described how our primitive ancestors, by means of their fingers, were able to count up to ten. Later, by including both feet, early man was able to count up to twelve. Everything beyond twelve was a mystery, and in that way 13 represented mystery to them—something that was unknown and fateful.

"If you are walking along a street and approaching a ladder,
what do you do?" asked Mr.
Mackay. "I have tried this on myself, and I find that if I can see a ladder from a distance and have time to direct my reason into its proper trend, then I deliberately walk under the ladder to show that I am not superstitious. But if I come upon it suddenly I walk round
it."

He claimed that instinct was supreme unless reason was deliberately put before it.

There was also the superstition of the falling picture. It was thought when a portrait fell that the nail which had been holding it up had lost its power, and so caused the picture to fall. The person whose portrait it was had lost the protection of the iron nail.
"Powers" Of The Horse Shoe

Mr. Mackay said that the lucky horse shoe originated when it was found necessary to protect the horses' hoofs. It was believed that certain persons could unwill-ingly cause a curse to fall upon other persons by using the evil eye.
The way to avert the curse was to point something sharp at the person. The horse shoe had two points and so had a double value in averting
the evil eye. There was a dispute by those people who studied superstition as to whether the horse shoe should be hung with the points facing up or down. The virtue in having the points facing downwards on the door was that they could avert the evil eye on the part of anyone entering whereas, if they pointed upwards the whole of the luck was contained in the horse shoe.

Referring to the superstition associated with the breaking of a mirror, Mr. Mackay said that in olden days, when a maiden looked upon her reflection in the placid stream and the reflection was disturbed by an enemy throwing a stone into the water, some injury would come by her.

Salt was a symbol of endurance and friendship, and the spilling of it was regarded as an outrage against hospitality. They throw salt over their left shoulder because it was on the left shoulder that the evil spirits rested.

COULD NOT DRESS HERSELF

Neuritis in Left Arm

"For neuritis I am using Kruschen Salts," writes a woman of 60 years.
"And they are a real benefit, for I could not dress myself sometimes, my left arm was so painful. I take Kruschen every morning, and the pain has now gone. I was recommended by my doctor to take salts of some kind that suited me, and I find Kruschen is the best. In fact it is wonderful. I feel ever so much better, and I shall always take it. I am 60 years of age, and have not felt so well for years."—K.P.

The pains of neuritis and sciatica are a symptom of deeper trouble—
the same trouble that causes rheumatism, gout and lumbago. They are a sign of an impure blood-stream.
They show that poisons have crept into the blood.

Kruschen is a combination of six natural salts, which ensure internal cleanness and keep the blood-stream pure. New and refreshed blood is sent coursing to every fibre of your being. Then, neuritis, sciat-ica and kindred ills all pass you by.

Man Doomed By His Doctors Vanishes At Sea

A man told by his doctor recently that he had only a few months to live boarded a steamer at Weymouth and shortly afterwards handed to a steward two letters.

When the steamer St. Heller reached Jersey the man was missing.

He was Mr. Hugh McKenzie
Henderson, aged fifty, a wartime submarine commander. He had recently been living at a London
hotel.

The letters were addressed to a life-long friend, Mrs. P. Brown, of Ovington Court, Brompton-road, London, and his fourteen-year-old adopted daughter, Beryl, who is at a convent school at Farnborough.

Mrs. Brown told the tragic story of Mr. Henderson's life to a London press representative. She said:

"Lately death has dogged his footsteps. He has been suffering from an incurable disease for about eighteen months. Doctors placed a time-limit on his life, but he had gone over that. This end the painful treatment to which he submitted have reduced him to a wreck."

"Recently he lost nearly all his money in a business crash, and to earn a living managed a garage in Russell-square. He was on his way to Jersey to try and smooth out his financial troubles."

"I saw him two hours before he left. I asked him to write to me but have not received his letter
yet."

"Until his illness he was a genial man and made many friends."

Mr. Henderson was a native of Scotland. He was unmarried.

LAWSUIT OVER A DOCTOR'S PANTS

FIRMS SEND K.C. FROM AUSTRALIA

NINE DAYS' ARGUMENT BEFORE PRIVY COUNCIL

Litigation over underpants which an Australian doctor contended had caused him to suffer from dermatitis—a form of skin disease—has cost something approaching £20,000.

Mr. Wilbur Ham, K.C., a famous Australian barrister, travelled to England to argue the case before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council—the highest judicial tribunal in the British Empire—which found in the doctor's favour.

The costs of these final proceedings, which lasted nine days, are alone expected to amount to about £10,000.

Dr. Richard Thorold Grant, of Adelaide, South Australia, claimed damages from the Australian Knitting Mills, Ltd., manufacturers of underwear, and John Martin and Co., the retailers, who sold him the pants.

The Supreme Court of South Australia awarded Dr. Grant £2,450 damages and costs, but the two firms appealed to the High Court of Australia, which found in their favour.

For the hearing before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, the Australian firms had briefed Mr. Wilbur Ham and three English counsel, with Mr. Wilfrid Greene, K.C. (now Lord Justice Greene), as leader. Dr. Grant's case was argued by two barristers.

The committee had before them 370 pages of printed matter relating to the evidence and judgments of the courts below.

Proceedings before the Supreme Court of South Australia lasted 21 days, there being three barristers on one side and two on the other. The issues were regarded as of such importance that numerous experts—doctors and chemists—were called to give evidence.

The same five counsel were engaged to argue the case before the High Court of Australia. There were 44 points of appeal, and the hearing lasted six days.

Irritating Chemical.
The judgment of the Judicial Committee, which had been prepared by Lord Wright, and read by Sir Lancelot Sanderson stated that Dr. Grant's claim was that the dermatitis was caused by the presence of an irritating chemical in the garments he bought. The irritation was such that he scratched the places until they bled. He consulted a dermatologist, who advised him to discard the underwear and ultimately his condition was so serious that he went into hospital.

Jewish Blood Permissible For Transfusions
—Says German Professor

Berlin, Nov. 5.
An Aryan need fear no risk of "racial defilement" if he accepts a transfusion of blood from a Jew. Professor Loewler, of the Radical Department of the Nazi Party, declares there is no foundation for the belief that such a transfusion would affect the Aryan's "purity of race." He remarks that persons guilty of spreading such an idea as that Jewish blood is not permissible for transfusions may cause damage to the health of the people since it might result in unnecessary restrictions at a moment when quick action was essential.—Exchange.

EDITOR SERVES GAOL SENTENCE, DIRECTS PAPER

Hanford, Cal., Oct. 30.
From his cell in county gaol Malcolm F. Calkins directs publication of his weekly newspaper, the Corcoran News, while he serves a six months' sentence for criminal libel.

"I don't intend to keep silent by any means," he said as he started a series of editorials entitled, "Why the Editor of the News Is in Gaol." Calkins intends to print the entire background of the heated election campaign last year.

Calkins is allowed visitors twice a week. During his incarceration, the paper is being edited by his nephew, Robert Calkins, of Ceres, just graduated from Stanford University.

He was sentenced after he lost on an appeal to district court. He spends much of his time playing chess with cellmates.

BRITISH ELECTORAL ANOMALIES

Despite the democratic principles upon which the British electoral system is based, the actual working of that system almost invariably produces anomalies. This fact was again illustrated in the General Election just concluded. In all, some 11,700,000 votes were cast for Government candidates, resulting in the return of 423 members; whereas over 10,000,000 Opposition votes secured the election of only 181 members. Thus, with only a million and a half votes more than the opposing parties, the Government has an additional 240 members. The anomaly is even more emphasised by the fact that the Conservatives secured 332 seats with 10,465,000 votes, whilst Labour, which polled 8,000,000 votes, had to be content with a representation of 153. Although not the case in the election under notice, it would be quite possible, under the existing system, for a Government to secure a substantial majority of seats on a minority vote. We have often seen that position in individual constituencies, where more than two candidates were contesting a single seat, more votes being cast against the successful nominee than for him. From time to time, various devices have been suggested for the purpose of rectifying the admitted flaws in the methods of election, but none of these has found favour in Britain. Altogether, in various parts of the world, some three-hundred systems have been tried with a view to remedying the evil. Of these, the most popular is the alternative vote. This involves larger constituencies, with a proportionate increase in the number of seats in each, and under this device electors are required to indicate on their ballot papers not only their first choice, but their second, third and so on. A certain number of votes, known as the quota, is required to elect a candidate, and when this has been reached, the surplus votes are transferred, in subsequent counts, in accordance with the electors' other preferences. The system does permit of adequate representation of minorities, but it is so complicated in its operation that it would never appeal to the British voter. None the less, there is an obvious need for some measure of electoral reform, if one simple in character could be devised, which would enable the votes cast at an election to give a fairer reflection of popular opinion than is possible under existing methods. In the main, the election just concluded has indicated the trend of political feeling in the country, but, even so, a fact which cannot be ignored is that almost as many votes were cast against the Government as in its favour.

JELlicoe of JUTLAND

Almost to the hour, seventeen years after the German fleet surrendered at Scapa Flow on November 21, 1928, Admiral Lord Jellicoe, the hero of Jutland, died in England. His life is best immortalised in the story of the first and only big naval conflict of the Great War—Jutland.

H.M.S. QUEEN MARY BLOWING UP AT THE BATTLE OF JUTLAND.

"There was a dull glow amid ships, and then the Queen Mary seemed to open out like a puff ball, or one of those toadstool things which one squeezes it. Then there was another dull red glow somewhere forward, and the whole ship seemed to collapse inwards. The funnels and masts fell in the middle, and the hull was blown outwards. Then everything was smoke."

In May, 1916, the German moral was at a low ebb. During the last week of April the government had been compelled to submit to President Wilson's ultimatum on the submarine question, the much advertised U-boats had made no decisive stroke, the Verdun losses had been appalling, a Russian revival was possible, and the German people were suffering severely from hunger. A victory of some kind, preferably a naval victory, was needed to brace the nation for fresh efforts. Admiral von Scheer had succeeded Admiral von Pohl as commander-in-chief of the navy, and he favoured a more active policy than had hitherto obtained. Accordingly, on May 30, the High Seas Fleet left the Kiel Canal in force. Its object, according to the admiral, was to attack British cruisers and merchant ships in and outside the Skagerrack, and to cut off, if possible, any division (presumably Sir David Beatty's battle-cruiser squadron) that might be sent for their protection. The German fleet sailed in two divisions: in the van was von Hipper's battle-cruiser squadron of five ships with attendant cruisers and destroyers; and some 60 miles astern, the battle fleet of some 19 or 20 battleships, 20 light-cruisers, and other details—practically the whole sea-might of Germany.

The interception of unusual wireless activity across the North Sea revealed to authorities at Whitehall that the German fleet was leaving its harbour. Sir John Jellicoe at Scapa Flow, and Sir David Beatty at Rosyth, were at once informed.

Jellicoe's Grand Fleet sailed in the afternoon of May 30, and Beatty's battle-cruiser squadron issued from the Forth towards midnight. Beatty's force included, in addition to his six battle-cruisers, three squadrons of light cruisers, four destroyers, flotillas, and the 5th Battle Squadron, under Evan Thomas. The Grand Fleet consisted of some 24 battleships, a squadron of battle-cruisers under Hood, two of light-cruisers, and three flotillas of British ships in the total number of 151. About midday on May 31 Beatty's force, which had been scouting to the southward, turned northwards to join the Grand Fleet, then some 75 miles distant. At 2.35 p.m. H.M.S. Galatea, on the extreme right of the light cruisers, which were spread out from east to west ahead of the battle-cruisers, sighted smoke in the eastward. Von Scheer said that one of his scouts had been sent to the westward to examine a steamer, and it was this scout, which revealed him to the enemy. Otherwise the course of the Germans would have carried them past the British forces. Two squadrons of British light cruisers sped eastward to investigate: a seaplane was sent up, and reported that behind the enemy light craft were five battle-cruisers. At 3.30 p.m. Beatty formed line of battle with the battle-cruisers leading and the battleship squadron following at about half a right angle to port, and steered for the Horn Reef, so as to place his force between the enemy and his base. At 3.48 p.m. the action began at a range of 18,500 yards. The battle that followed will best be described in sections.

The Southward Chase.—Von Hipper at once headed southwards for the main German fleet, Beatty following on a parallel course, at a range of about 14,000 yards. At 3.48 p.m. a chance shot exploded the magazine of H.M.S. Queen Mary, and she sunk almost instantaneously with all hands. A similar disaster followed at 4.18 p.m., when H.M.S. Indefatigable went down, Beatty's main force being reduced to four ships as against von Hipper's five. At 4.8 p.m. Evan Thomas's squadron came into action at a range of 20,000 yards. Meanwhile, at 4.1 p.m. two flotillas of British destroyers and one squadron of light cruisers moved out to make a torpedo attack on the enemy's capital ships. Almost at the same moment enemy flotillas moved out for a like purpose, and the two forces met before either had reached a position suitable for discharging their torpedoes. A spirited engagement followed, and two of the enemy were sunk. Three British destroyers pushed on to make a broadside attack, and came under fierce fire. Two enemy destroyers were sunk. H.M.S. Nomad was disabled and afterwards lost. H.M.S. Nestor and H.M.S. Nicator held on to 3,000 yards of the German Battle Fleet, which was sighted by H.M.S. Southampton at 4.38 p.m. Twenty minutes previously the third ship of von Hipper's line was seen to be on fire. H.M.S. Nestor was stopped, and was numbered with our losses. H.M.S. Nicator escaped and rejoined.

The Northward Run.—It was now clear that the enemy's tactics were to lure Beatty within reach of the German High Seas Fleet, and, by dint of overwhelming preponderance of gun power, destroy him. Beatty had but four capital ships, the 5th Battle Squadron, and being out of range, and obviously even with that assistance he could not fight the whole German fleet. He therefore turned his ships, one by one, and von Hipper followed his example, with von Scheer's fleet falling behind him. The northward run now began (4.42 p.m.), our ships standing out sharp against the clear horizon, while the German vessels were shrouded in mist. At 5.10 H.M.S. Fearless reported one of the enemy heavy ships on fire. A critical hour followed while Beatty led the enemy northward towards Jellicoe, who had 60 per cent. more ships than the Germans, and over 200 per cent. greater gun power. Having the legs of the enemy, Beatty was able to keep ahead of von Hipper and prevent von Scheer from bringing his broadsides to bear. Between 5.30 and 6 p.m. the visibility from the British vessels grew worse, but the German advantage was neutralised by Beatty's speed. During this phase our destroyers made attacks, and H.M.S. Moresby claimed a victim. At 5.35 von Scheer began hauling round to the east—i.e., gradually away from the British line. It is supposed that by this time he had received information of the appearance of the Grand Fleet. At 5.56 p.m. Jellicoe's leading battle-ships were sighted.

Crossing the T.—At 6 p.m. the Grand Fleet was five miles to the north, approximately 12 miles from the enemy. Beatty now realized that at full speed he could head the German fleet, so that by the time the Grand Fleet had deployed he would be in a commanding position on the bow of the enemy's van. He supposed that the twenty-four ships of the Grand Fleet would outflank the enemy at both ends of his line. At 6.21 p.m. Hood, turning from a fruitless search for the enemy, led his battle-cruiser squadron into action after sending forward H.M.S. Chester as a scout. Almost immediately his flagship, H.M.S. Invincible, was sunk. Her consort, however, with Beatty's vessels, drove the leading German ship out of the line and "crumpled up" the head of the German fleet. During this phase of the battle H.M.S. Defence was sunk, and H.M.S. Warrior was so disabled that she went down during the night.

Deployment of the Grand Fleet.—Information as to this phase of the battle is sadly lacking, and so far no official account has appeared. It is, however, surmised that Jellicoe, instead of following in Beatty's wake with his six divisions then on a S.E. by S. course, formed line on the starboard wing, which took the vessels out of action altogether. Shortly before 7 p.m. the fleet was reformed into a new line, at an angle of 45 degrees to starboard of its former course. The line was completed shortly after 7.12 p.m. when the opposing fleets were roughly parallel to each other. It is said that at this time Beatty made a signal to the commander-in-chief submitting that, if the leading squadron of the Battle Fleet would follow him, the enemy might be annihilated. At 7.12 p.m. von Scheer sent out his destroyers to make an attack on the battleships. At 7.23 p.m. Jellicoe turned his ships eight points and proceeded at right angle to his former course for eight minutes. He then resumed his course, but at 7.40 p.m. another torpedo attack procured a similar manoeuvre. This enabled von Scheer, under cover of dense smoke clouds, to get his whole fleet on to a southerly easterly course and escape. At 7.45 p.m. the mist came down, and the enemy was lost to sight.

Searching for the Enemy.—At 7.58 p.m. the 1st and 3rd Light Cruiser Squadrons were spread out and ordered to sweep westward and discover the whereabouts of the head of the enemy's line. They soon came within range of the enemy, and Beatty turned west to support. Action began at the short range of 10,000 yards. The leading enemy ships, assailed by H.M.S. Lion, turned away on fire. H.M.S. Princess Royal set fire to a three-funnelled battleship, and H.M.S. New Zealand and H.M.S. Indomitable reported that the third enemy ship had been forced out of line, was heeling over, and also on fire. At 8.40 p.m. a heavy shock was felt on board the British ships—probably due to the blowing up of a big enemy vessel. Then the mist descended, and the enemy was last seen by H.M.S. Falmouth at 22 minutes to 9. At 9 p.m. Beatty fell back to the line of the Grand Fleet, and the dispositions were made for the night. The 13th Destroyer Flotilla and one light-cruiser squadron were retained with the capital ships for protection, and the rest were disposed in a position in which they could afford protection to the fleet and at the same time be favourably situated for attacking the enemy's heavy ships.

The Night Attack of Destroyers.—At 10.20 p.m. the 2nd Light Cruiser Squadron got into action with five enemy cruisers, and at 11.30 p.m. H.M.S. Birmingham sighted several heavy ships steering S. or W.S.W. At 12.30 a.m. 13th Flotilla reported a large vessel which opened fire and disabled H.M.S. Turbulent. At 12.35 a.m. H.M.S. Moresby sighted four pre-Dreadnoughts, and fired a torpedo; two minutes later she felt the shock of an explosion on board the ship aimed at.

The other destroyers also had opportunities of using their torpedoes, three of which were probably successful, and a fourth resulted in the blowing up of a ship. During the night H.M.S. Black Prince and the following British destroyers were sunk: Tipperary, Ardent, Fortune, Shark, Sparrowhawk, and Turbulent.

The Next Day, June 1.—At daybreak, June 1, says Lord Jellicoe in his dispatch, "the Battle Fleet" being then to the southward and westward of the Horn Reef, turned to northward in search of enemy vessels, and for the purpose (Continued on Page 4.)

REOPENING PLAN

NATION COMMERCIAL AND SAVINGS BANK

An advertisement appearing in yesterday's issue of the S. C. M. Post gave notice that the Supreme Court of Hongkong has directed separate meetings of the unsecured creditors and the members of the National Commercial and Savings Bank, Limited, to be convened on Monday, December 16, 1935.

The meetings will be held for the purpose of considering and, if thought fit, approving, with or without modification, a scheme of arrangement proposed to be made between the creditors and members and the Bank.

The meeting of the creditors will be held at 11.30 a.m. and the meeting of members at 2.30 p.m. on the same day, or so soon thereafter as the meeting of creditors is concluded.

Drafts of the scheme of arrangement have been printed, and can be seen, and forms of proxy obtained, at the office of the Liquidators at No. 8A Des Voeux Road Central, or at Messrs. Lo and Lo, Alexandra Building, their solicitors.

The Court has appointed the Rev. Cheung Chuk-ling or failing him Mr. Mann K. Wong to act as Chairman of the meetings, and has directed such Chairman to report the result of the meetings to the Court.

The scheme will be subject to the subsequent approval of the Court.

Provisions of Scheme

The scheme of arrangement provides that in addition to the present issued capital of the Company, which is $2,574,100 divided into 257,410 ordinary shares, the balance of the unsecured creditors' claims on the Company (which is $5,000,000 divided into 500,000 Ordinary shares of $10 each) amounting to $2,425,900, be issued and that such new issue be divided into (1) 60,000 "A" Preference shares of $10 each and (2) 182,500 "B" Preference shares of $10 each.

"A" Preference shares shall confer on the holder the right to a fixed cumulative preferential dividend at the rate of four per cent. per annum on the capital for the time being paid up thereon respectively, and certain other rights.

"B" Preference shares shall confer on the holder, to a fixed cumulative dividend at the rate of four per cent. per annum on the capital for the time being paid up thereon respectively, and the right, in a winding up, to payment next after the said "A" Preference shares but in priority to the Ordinary shares.

The 60,000 "A" Preference shares shall be dealt with as follows:

(a) 51,482 shares thereof shall be offered in the first instance at par to the present members of the Company and holders of the Ordinary shares in proportion, as nearly as possible, of one share to every five ordinary shares held by them respectively, and upon the footing that full amount of each share taken up shall be paid to the Company on acceptance of the offer and that such offer be made by notice specifying the number of shares to which the member is entitled and limiting the time within which the offer if not accepted by payment will be deemed to be declined and that the Directors be empowered to dispose of the shares not taken in response to such offer as they consider expedient in the interests of the Company.

(b) That the remaining 8,518 shares thereof offered to the public for subscription at par the full amount thereof is payable on application.

Unsecured Creditors

The unsecured creditors of the Company shall be dealt with as follows:

(a) That in respect of 50% of the amount due to each of the unsecured creditors of the Company there shall be issued to such creditors "B" Preference shares equal to the amount thereof credited as fully paid up but no such "B" Preference shares shall be issued for a sum representing a fraction of $10 and in respect of the debt due by the Company to an unsecured creditor not exceeding the sum of $100 such creditor can either ask for payment in cash or in "B" Preference shares.

(b) That in respect of the 50% being balance of the amount due to each of the unsecured creditors of the Company as aforesaid the same shall be paid in cash by 10 instalments of 10% each; that the first instalment shall be paid at the expiration of not later than six months from the date when the Company shall be legally entitled to resume business and that each and every subsequent instalment shall be paid at the expiration of six months from the date of the payment of the previous instalment.

(c) That in the event of the Company not being in a position to pay any instalment at the end of any six months the payment of such instalment shall be postponed for a period not exceeding six months.

(d) That in respect of the amount due to the unsecured creditors as aforesaid the same shall not carry interest as against the Company.

(e) That the term "unsecured creditors" in this Clause shall be deemed to include all creditors (other than secured creditors) whose claims have been admitted by the Liquidators in the winding up of the Company and all those claims whose claims shall hereafter be so admitted and every such creditor shall rank as a creditor for the amount so admitted to be due to him and no more.

The Liquidators of the Company, or the directors of the Company, shall be entitled to pay all claims of unsecured creditors of a less amount than $100, and all fractions of $10 on the unsecured creditors' claim in cash.

The unsecured creditors of the Company shall accept the provisions in their favour contained in this scheme in full satisfaction of all

OBITUARY

"CAMBRIDGE SEVEN"
ATHLETE AND MISSIONARY

London, Nov. 22.

The death is announced of the Rev. A. T. Polhill, of the famous Cambridge "Seven Athletes Missionaries."—Reuter.

A notable figure in the China Mission-world is removed by the death of Arthur Twissleton Polhill at the age of about 76.

Son of the late Captain Frederic T. Charles Polhill-Turner of the Caribbeers, he was educated at Eton, where in 1879 and 1880 he was, in the famous Etonian Wall game Senior Keeper of the Field and Mixed wall, and also winner of the School hurdles, in 1880.

After taking his degree from Trinity Hall Cambridge he studied at Ridley Hall Theological College, and was ordained Deacon in 1888 and priest two years later.

Polhill and one of his brothers joined the Cambridge Seven missionaries to China, under the China Inland Mission, which now has 1,200 workers in China.

No less than 43 years of his life were given to work in China, in the province of Szechuen, and Polhill took a leading part in the founding of the students' hostel in Chengtu, which was started and supported by the Old Etonian China Association, of which he was a leading member.

After his retirement Mr. Polhill still maintained contact with mission work in China and was an active and valued supporter on the Home front.

An extra bus service has been arranged for the convenience of the patrons attending dinner dances at Repulse Bay Hotel on Wednesdays and Saturdays, in addition to the ordinary time table, as follows: H.K. Hotel, 8 p.m., 8.30 p.m., 9 p.m., H.B. Hotel, 1 a.m., 1.15 a.m., 1.30 a.m.

Election of Directors

Within four weeks after the scheme becomes binding, a meeting of the members of all classes of the Company shall be convened for the purpose of electing directors of the Company in accordance with the provisions of the Articles of Association of the Company.

Clause 11 of the scheme states that the qualification of every director shall be either the holding of 100 "A" Preference shares in addition to the qualification shares as provided by Article 127 of the Articles of Association of the Company, or the holding of 500 Preference shares whether "A" or "B" of the Company.

Another clause provides that unless 10,000 at least of the "A" Preference shares shall be subscribed and paid for within eight weeks after this scheme becomes binding, the liquidators may, with the sanction of the Court, declare that this scheme has fallen through, and in case any such declaration as aforesaid is made, the voluntary winding up of the Company with the same liquidators and the same Committee of Inspection, shall proceed in due course, and all the other provisions of this scheme shall be at an end.

The liquidators may assent to any modification in this scheme or condition which the Court may think fit to approve or impose.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

NOTHING PROBABLY IS MORE DANGEROUS FOR THE HUMAN RACE THAN SCIENCE WITHOUT POETRY, CIVILISATION WITHOUT CULTURE.—Stewart Chamberlain.

His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government has appointed Dr. Valentine to act as Deputy Director of Medical and Sanitary Services, during the absence on leave of Dr. W. B. A. Moore.

It is notified that satisfactory proof of the appointment of Monsieur Leon Virendelet as Procureur General in Hongkong, of the Society of the Missionary Evangelists, in the place and stead of Monsieur Alphonse Marie Boiteau, has been placed in the hands of His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government.

The following new regulation has been made under the Merchant Shipping Ordinance.—The portions of the seawall for a distance of 50 feet measured each side from the Shamshui Ferry Pier shall be kept clear of vessels. No vessel shall be brought alongside or lie off any of the said portions of the seawall, nor shall any vessel, other than the ferry vessels, using the said pier, approach any of such portions of the seawall.

It is notified that the International Sanitary Convention for Aerial Navigation, which was signed at the Hague on April 12 1933, was ratified by His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom on September 15, 1934, by virtue of a notification deposited on 3rd April, 1935, the Convention applies to the Colony of Hongkong as from the 1st August, 1935. A copy of the Convention may be inspected at the Colonial Secretary's Office.

EXPANDING
HOLDINGSCANADIAN COMPANY
DEVELOPMENTS

The Hongkong office of the Confederation Life Association has been informed that the company has taken over the Capital Life Assurance Company of Ottawa, under an agreement by which it reinsures all policies of the latter company.

Policy-holders in Capital Life thus greatly enhance their position as far as security and dividend possibilities are concerned, and share-holders avoid the possibility of calls upon their holdings. Besides re-insuring all policies, Confederation Life assumes all assets and liabilities, thus adding about $400,000 to its own assets, totalling over $2,000,000. Its business in force will be increased by about $2,250,000 and will bring the total up to about $100,000,000.

It was in September, 1928, that Confederation Life took over the Security Life Insurance Company, which had assets of about $200,000 and business in force of approximately $2,000,000. In 1930 it took over the Commercial Travellers Mutual Insurance Company, with $425,000 of business, so that it is one of the most rapidly expanding of the big Canadian companies.

HARKNESS ORCHESTRA

FEATURE ATTRACTION FOR THE HONGKONG HOTEL

Eddie Harkness and his famous orchestra of San Francisco, California, now on tour in the Orient, have been engaged to play a special engagement at the Hongkong Hotel on Friday evening, November 29. Harkness has played long successful engagements at the principal hotels in California, namely—St. Francis, Mark Hopkins, Palace and Sir Francis Drake Hotels in San Francisco, and Olympic Hotel in Seattle. The orchestra's radio appearances at K.F.R.C. (Columbia network) and National Broadcasting Co. network, together with their Victor records, have placed them among the most popular orchestras in the U.S. The broadcasting of this fine orchestra in Tokyo, Hongkong and Shanghai has won the admiration of radio audiences throughout the Orient.

This will be the only appearance of Harkness and his orchestra in Hongkong, as their tour is completed and they are on their way home to San Francisco. On Friday evening they will offer several of their comedy numbers, which were such a success at the Metropolitan Theatre in Manila last week, in conjunction with the latest American dance music.

CONVICTS HEAR THE STORY OF NURSE CAVELL

ARMED GUARD FOR LECTURER

Lady Haig's Flowers for Condemned Cell

Brussels, Oct. 30.

Five hundred and fifty convicts, all separately locked in wooden cabins, with only their heads visible, and with six armed warders on guard, to-day heard a lecture on Nurse Cavell in the St. Gilles prison, where she spent her last hours before her execution.

This amazing scene took place in the prison chapel. The lecture was delivered by Maitre Braffort, who defended Nurse Cavell at her trial by the Germans.

The occasion was the 20th anniversary of the shooting of the heroic nurse.

The convicts appeared to be moved at hearing of the sufferings of the woman who had been in the same prison as themselves.

Maitre Braffort held up Nurse Cavell as an inspiration to the convicts "become good and start their lives afresh."

Cell 23, which Nurse Cavell left on the morning of October 12, 1915, to face the firing squad, was decorated with flowers, which included a bouquet from Countess Haig.

MORE IMAGINATION NEEDED BY LOCAL REFEREES

USE OF ADVANTAGE RULE

TOO MANY AUTOMATON OFFICIALS

DANGEROUS TACTICS WHICH SHOULD BE STOPPED

(By "Veritas").

That the refereeing of football matches in Hongkong is attracting quite a lot of attention, in some quarters real criticism and in others open abuse, is not exceptional, though it is of interest. The same criticism is going on wherever organised football is played. Furthermore it is no new feature. It has been going on from time immemorial. By the law of usage it has well nigh become the prerogative of spectators.

But at the moment, that type of abusive criticism hurled at the referee by ignorant spectators during the match is of no great concern. It will merit attention later on.

I am thinking about that which might be described as constructive criticism. Criticism of the manner in which a game is controlled, rather than of isolated decisions. The vitally important part of a referee's play in a game is not fully appreciated by many of the most ardent supporters of football. There is a tendency to regard his importance only in terms of authority which is vested in him as an adjudicator and arbitrator. Numbers of spectators will affirm that a referee can make or mar a match, but base this affirmation of whether his decisions are in accordance with, or contrary to, their own personal opinions.

TWO LOCAL FEATURES

A surprisingly few number, however, appreciate that the referee can also make or mar a game by giving absolutely correct decisions regarding technical offences; decisions which are based solely on the letter of the law. And by the same token they can (and do) encourage reckless play by ignoring questionable methods which do not break the letter of the law, yet certainly contravene its spirit.

FAIR CHARGE—Here is an example of the goalkeeper being fairly though vigorously charged.

And so far as local football is concerned I have two features in mind. One is the total ignorance of the advantage rule. The other turning a blind eye to jumping.

It is no use pretending that it is easy to apply the advantage rule fairly and in accordance with the object of the law. It calls for instant decision and a certain amount of imagination. And the all important factor is imagination. It is a quality sadly lacking from the mental make-up of local referees. The really good referee is not the man who is rule perfect, confines himself to their literal interpretation and imposes those interpretations arbitrarily, without thought of the spirit behind the offence whether purely technical or deliberate.

He is the automaton referee, and there are too many automaton referees in Hongkong football.

IMAGINATION NEEDED

There is a distinct need of more imaginative refereeing in Hongkong. I am convinced it would make a tremendous contribution to better and cleaner football. It will not make the referee any more popular, but then he never did hold any such exalted position, and neither is he concerned about it.

I would like to see the advantage rule applied as I saw it used in several games in England a couple of months ago. It would do a lot to rid the game of petty interferences. After all if a referee is keenly alive to all the possibilities it is not very difficult to decide whether a player in possession of the ball and who has been fouled, will benefit more by awarding a free kick (and thereby giving the opposition defence time to rearrange themselves) or by allowing him to carry on towards the goal. This applies especially to the occasions where a forward has broken clean away and has put the defence at a complete disadvantage.

I would like to see our referees exercise more frequently their privilege of being permitted to interpret the spirit rather than the letter of the law when it comes to purely accidental and technical offences. It would rid the game of

SYDNEY STRANGE UNFIT

CLUB FURTHER HANDICAPPED

(By "Veritas").

I AM afraid the Club's prospects of taking points from the Fusiliers to-day have sunk considerably as a result of Sydney Strange's inability to turn out this afternoon. Strange sustained a painful ankle injury last week.

HIS deputy will be Sykes, who has played on and off for the first and second teams this season.

THIS move, incidentally, has created a gap in the Club's second eleven, but, Gamble, who broke a blood vessel in the first match of the season has decided to have a run out and will therefore take Sykes's place against the Lincolns.

APPARENTLY Ridley and Baldry have recovered from their injuries which kept them out of the International Charity Cup game last Sunday. They are scheduled for duty against South China "A" to-morrow in one of the tit-bit games of the week-end.

A local Press team is playing to-day. What a chance for our footballers to get their own backs! But the news-hounds are confidently anticipating the attendance of the Inter-Port Selection Committee!

THE Club third team are providing the opposition. This is the first time I knew the Club could field three sides at one time. I have not included this match in my forecast, but honesty compels me to tip the Press.

I must deny the statement that the services of "Rover" and "Veritas" have been obtained at an enormous fee. The true report is "Their services have been obtained!"

BADMINTON EASY FOR SHUTES

Fine Play At C. R. C.

RECREIO AGAIN

St. Andrew's Close Call

Recreio "B" go to the "top of the class" as a result of last night's matches in the mixed doubles division of the Badminton League. They really share the exalted position with the Fire Brigade, but enjoy a slight pull in respect to games won and lost.

The three games produced expected results. Recreio had all their own way against Tai Koo at Quarry Bay; Chinese Recreation Club put up a creditable showing against the Fire Brigade (who had good reason to thank their lucky stars for the Mr. and Mrs. Shute combination); and St. Andrew's only just scraped home against St. John's.

Some of the best badminton of the evening was seen at Causeway Bay where the C.R.C. entertained the Fire Brigade. Here, S.W. Liang and Miss Ullian Khoo, playing as the home side's second string, put up three praiseworthy performances, and enjoyed the distinction of winning two games. There is a very promising partnership to be found with these two. In the two matches played to date they have won five out of six games. Only two other pairs in the division can show a better record.

IN THEIR ELEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Shute, despite the strange surroundings were in their element and achieved the triple success with the loss of 26 points. Miss Madge Griffiths lost her first game of the season, while A.L. Fisher and Mrs. Wild were made to concede two of their encounters.

The C.R.C. have two very useful pairs, capable of taking games from most teams. If the team was a little more balanced it would figure as one of the chief contenders for mixed doubles honours.

Recreio "B" won at will down at Tai Koo despite determined opposition from T. Stainton and Miss J. Summers, who refused to concede their games until they had annexed 40 points. A.E. Xavier proved a sound substitute for L.A. Silva and it is obvious that the only teams likely to beat the Portuguese are the Fire Brigade and their own clubmates.

At St. Andrew's Church Hall there was a hard struggle for points, the home team eventually emerging on top by the odd game. F.H. Kwok and Miss Smith carried off individual honours by winning all three games. Unfortunately for St. John's they were poorly supported, the other two pairs only managing to win one game between them.

RESULTS

ST. ANDREW'S v. ST. JOHN'S
Played at St. Andrew's Church Hall, the home team prevailing by five games to four and 169 aces to 130.
H. Kew and Miss Churn (St. Andrew's) beat R. Koh and Mrs. Baldry ..... 21-11
lost to F. H. Kwok and Miss Smith ..... 14-21

R. H. Wong and Mrs. Dawson (St. Andrew's) beat Koh and Baldry ..... 21-17 lost to Kwok and Smith ..... 11-21
beat Clark and McCaw ..... 21-4

C.R.C. v. FIRE BRIGADE

Played at Causeway Bay, the Fire Brigade winning by six games to three and 162 aces to 116.
W. C. Choy and Miss W. W. Cheung (C.R.C.) lost to E. L. H. Shute and Mrs. Shute ..... 9-21 lost to J. L. Anderson and Miss M. Griffiths ..... 14-21 beat A. L. Fisher and Mrs. Wild ..... 21-11
S. W. Liang and Miss Ullian Khoo (C.R.C.) lost to Shute and Shute ..... 9-21 beat Anderson and Griffiths ..... 21-5 beat Fisher and Wild ..... 21-10
L. Lee and Miss G. Mok (C.R.C.) lost to Shute and Shute ..... 8-21 lost to Anderson and Griffiths ..... 5-21
lost to Fisher and Wild ..... 8-21

TAIKOO v. CLUB de RECREIO "B"

Played at Quarry Bay, Recreio winning by nine games to love and 189 aces to 85.
T. Stainton and Miss J. Summers (Taikoo) lost to E. de Souza and Mrs. Sousa ..... 13-21 lost to L. Carvalho and Miss A. Remedios ..... 18-21 lost to A. E. Xavier and Miss S. Remedios ..... 17-21

Several alterations are notified in the probable starters and jockeys for the Manchester November Handicap.

"Tommy Weston" will ride R. B. Bennett, Harry Beasley will be mounted on Astyanax, Hickaby on Thraxton, Siret on Romney, Dines will have Mistral, Richardson has been given Soleris, Ryan has Pergamos, Barber mounts Coup de Roi, and Cordell rides London Fog.

Czarowitz, St. Boswells, British Quota and Pharillon have been scratched.

All Blacks Make Team Changes

FOR BIG MATCH TO-DAY

London, Nov. 22.
The All Blacks have been forced to make changes in the team selected to meet Scotland to-morrow.

More will replace Pepper while Tindill has been omitted. There is a possibility that Lambourn will be unfit in which case Pepper will substitute for him.

The revised team now reads:
New Zealand: Back, Gilbert; three quarters, Mitchell, Oliver, Hart, five-eighths, Caughney, Griffiths; half, Sadler; forwards, More, Hindley, Lambourn, Manchester, Reid, King, McKenzie and Mahoney.

Scotland's team is:
Scotland: Kerr, (Heriotians); Forrest, (Glasgow Academicals); Dick, (Guys Hospital), Murdoch (Hillhead High School), Fyfe (Cambridge University); L. Shae (Glasgow High School), Logan (Edinburgh Wanderers); Grievie (Kelso), Gray (Gala), G. Shaw (Gala), Beatty (Gawick), Burnett (West Scotland), Lambe (Glasgow High School), Waters (Selkirk), Thom (London Scottish).—Reuter.

FRIENDLY HOCKEY

Nomads' Team Against Mule Corps

The following have been selected to represent the Nomads hockey eleven against the Indian Mule Corps at the Marina ground this afternoon at 2.30:

C. Soares; J. Souza and R. J. Reed; A. Xavier, S. A. Reed and R. C. Reed; L. Silva, L. Souza, F. O. Reed, C. Barros (Capt) and J. H. Franco.

MARINA MATCH

THE H.K. SINGAPORE BRIGADE BEAT NAVY "A" TEAM

In a friendly hockey match played on the Marina ground yesterday afternoon the Hongkong Singapore Brigade Royal Artillery defeated the Royal Navy "A" team by two clear goals.

Exchanges were fast throughout, both goals being scored in the first half, by Lieut. C. C. Garthwaite, the Interporter, and Khuda Bux. In the second period of the game the play was more evenly distributed and neither side could penetrate the goal.

SUSPENSION OF JACK KEARNS

DEMPSEY'S FORMER MANAGER

FACES AMAZING ALLEGATION

Los Angeles, Jack Kearns, whose managerial genius elevated Jack Dempsey from obscurity to the world's heavyweight championship, has been suspended as a fight manager pending investigation of a match here which officials pronounced "queer."

Kearns' fighter, "Bunk" Bath, the Doctor's new "white hope" and candidate for the heavyweight title, entertained some 10,000 cash customers by knocking out his sparring mate.

The sparring mate, Ralph Norwood, an aging, good-natured negro, ordinarily was employed by Dr. Kearns for his man, Bath, to knock out in gymnasium at the rate of $1 a round.

This time the stunt was performed before more than $5,000 worth of paying guests who had come expecting Bath to fight an entirely different party, Terrie (Leo the Lion) Hill, a dark young man from Madagascar. Leon the Lion showed up supposedly drunk, however, and the venerable Norwood was recruited as a substitute.

STARTLING DISCLOSURE

These strange doings might have called for nothing more serious than a severe reprimand, had not Hill come forward with his explanation of the affair.

He claimed he hadn't been pined with liquor until he swooned, as previously reported by promoters, but was "ordered to stay down" to Bath by the referee, who, when he refused, he was given a "sobriety test" and pronounced drunk.

When this startling disclosure was relayed to Dr. Kearns, head man of the State Boxing Board, now in New York attending a medical convention, he telegraphed Inspector Kipper ordering Dr. Kearns and his mate, Bath, expelled from the minutes until they think up a suitable explanation.

"If the contest was a deliberate 'frameup,'" Dr. Martin wired, "I will see that suspensions are increased to life disbarment. In California, and furthermore will prevail on the boxing authorities of any state where boxing is regulated to take similar action."

MAMAK HOCKEY

Clubs Complain Of Umpires' Absences

Complaints that umpires had a habit of not turning up at Mamak Tournament matches were heard at a meeting of the League held yesterday afternoon. Capt. A. Kimm presided, assisted by Sub-Inspector Taylor.

The Chairman informed the meeting that with a view to eliminating this trouble the Executive Committee of the League suggested that Mr. A. E. P. Guest be elected an Assistant Hon. Secretary, to take sole charge of arrangements for the Mamak League. This proposal was adopted.

It was stated that H.M.S. Parthian would enter the "A" Division of the League, and that they would be invited to ask other Navy players to represent them if they wished. The secretary of the Parthian team is Lieut. H. Chapman, R.N., c/o Naval Yard.

The meeting was informed that handbooks for the year were now ready and were obtained at ten cents a copy. Before closing the meeting the Chairman requested umpires to let the Hon. Secretary know the results of matches.

Club secretaries were also asked to send their fixture lists to the Assistant Hon. Secretary as soon as possible.

Merry Kid led the field of ten over the Stand Jump in the Grand National which featured the closing card of the Autumn Meeting at the Shanghai Race Course. Bolton kept the Sutterly pony in the van practically all the way to the Morris Jump, when, following ahead landing he was forced to give way to Rocklight, who, however, also fell. White Lotus came up with a lovely finish to pass the favourite and win by three lengths. Above, Nightlight taking the Stand water jump.

More Imagination Needed

MORE HUMAN ATTITUDE

It would be magnificent to find our referees adopting a more human attitude to charging. There was an instance in last week's game between the Recoile and Club when one of the players received a very fair shoulder charge which, catching him on the wrong foot, sent him spinning. And his opponent was forthwith penalised for an alleged foul.

Experience goes to show that goalkeepers in local football are not allowed to be charged in any shape or form. It would be a fine lesson to some of our officials if they could see Drake of the Arenal tackle a goalkeeper. Drake is perfectly fair about it, but if any local players attempted the same thing they would probably get turned off the field.

But where in Hongkong we find stringent application of the rule concerning technical offences, we observe a great deal of laxity in connection with methods of play which, although not strictly illegal, are equally as dangerous. I have particularly in mind this pernicious habit, which unhappily is rapidly spreading, of jumping several yards through the air when there is not a hope in heaven of the player getting near the ball. All he does is to endanger the body of an opponent.

FUTILE, UNNECESSARY, UNGENTLEMANLY

It is a futile, unnecessary, and extremely ungentlemanly practice, and it ought to be stopped forthwith. Here again the need of imagination is felt. It seems that before a player is pulled up for dangerous play in Hongkong he has to maintain an opponent. So long as he doesn't touch a player he can cut any sort of caper. He can indulge in that treacherous follow-through kick with the foot travelling towards the other fellow's abdomen, and he can use the spectacular "double-kick volley" which brings one foot up to somebody's chin, with perfect impunity—so long as he doesn't gain contact. And referees fail to see that contact or no contact, the action is the same; that everytime it is employed it is full of dangerous possibilities and that it is purely luck if the other fellow doesn't "get a packet."

It is the sort of thing which can be stopped and should be stopped. But unless local referees begin to take fairly quick action I am afraid we shall arrive at a position similar to that when a Hongkong referee, in reply to my question as to why a certain player was allowed to indulge in certain tactics, ruefully observed "You see he has been doing it now for so many years that it is impossible to stop him. He would be unable to appreciate why we now pulled him up for something he has been doing for years."

This season an urgent appeal has been made to players to cut out the "dirty stuff." I feel that our referees can also contribute their share to effect this laudable aim.

SERIAL STORY

DONNA OF THE BIG TOP

by BEULAH POYNTER

CHAPTER XXXVI

"The Adams baby has diphtheria," Minnie announced as she took the remains of yesterday's roast turkey from the oven and placed it on a platter. "Ma says that last night Mrs. Adams sent for Doc Leamon. He was there for more'n an hour and he had to do something to the baby's throat."

"I hope the little thing will live," Donna answered. "Is anyone with Mrs. Adams?"

"Yes, her sister's there." "Diphtheria is a terrible disease," Donna said. "I remember once when a child in the circus had it. A sudden thought had struck her. The Adams family were the Siddals' nearest neighbours. While Donna scarcely knew them, under other circumstances she would have offered her assistance at once."

The child's illness seemed an answer to her prayer. What could be more natural than to tell Bill that she was going over to see if there was anything she could do for the family with the sick child? And on the way back from town she would stop and make good her statement.

It seemed a positive inspiration. She had been unable to invent any excuse important enough to take her to Lebanon on a day when Grandfather Siddals was so ill. And Donna felt that she had to have an excuse. Con David would be waiting for her at three o'clock. She had promised she would meet him. What Con might do if she failed to be there, she dared not think!

At noon over the dinner table Donna passed on Minnie's information about the Adams baby. She added the fact that she knew something about diphtheria and remembered how they had treated a little girl in the circus who was suffering from it. "If you don't think Grandfather needs me here I'll drive over," she said. "Maybe there's something I could do to help."

Bill, who was naturally friendly and had often worried a little over his bride's reserve and distaste for mingling with society, greeted this suggestion with approval. "That'll be nice, Honey. Mrs. Adams is a nice little woman and I reckon she's about worried sick. I know the little coddler. Just the sort of kid I hope we'll have some day. Better go early though—it looks as though we might have a blow."

The skies had darkened during the morning. There were snow clouds and a stiff wind was blowing that threatened to turn into a blizzard. As Bill spoke, a few big flakes hurried through the air and danced against the window pane.

"This time last year," Bill added, "we were snowed in for a week. Telegraph and telephone poles blew down. Trains couldn't get through, and a horse of livestock died of cold and starvation. I don't want you to get caught in a blizzard, Honey."

"There's not much chance when I'm going just half a mile," Donna laughed. But she glanced uneasily out of the window.

"I'll drive you over, if you like." This was what Donna had feared he would say. "No, no, I'd rather you didn't. I'm sure Grandfather will be all right, but just the same I think one of us should be within call."

"Maybe you're right."

There was a new farm magazine to look over and Bill sprawled on the couch in the living room for some time after finishing his meal. Now and then Donna looked apprehensively at the clock, watching the hands spin around with what seemed amazing speed. Her feeling of guilt deepened with every moment. There was no reason for her to wait until Bill left the house. For that matter, he gave no indication that he intended ed to leave. Somehow, though, she could not make up her mind to go while he stayed inside, lying there so completely ignorant of the raging tumult in her heart.

The snow flakes were falling faster now and the skies were more lowering. Bill yawned and at his feet, magazine to the floor at his feet.

"Honey, did you notice Dr. Freeman this morning?" he asked. "Looks like doesn't he?"

"Does he?"

"Yes. I wonder if there is any truth in the reports going around?"

"What reports?"

Bill laughed and reached out his hand. "You're not a gossip, are you, dear? I heard in town the other day that his wife is just a little too intimate with the fellow who boards with them. Of course in a small town everything a woman does is magnified and misconstrued."

"Bill! I'm surprised at you! To think you would listen to such talk?"

"I didn't, Sweet," Bill laughed good-naturedly. "I was in Buck's feed store when Mrs. Freeman went by, and Buck and George Lincoln got to talking. I couldn't help hearing what they said."

"Didn't you stand up for her?"

"How could I, considering she was with the boarder when we saw her? There's an old saying that where there's fire there must be smoke. No—it's the other way around, isn't it? If she doesn't want talk, she shouldn't lay herself open to it by her actions. I reckon he's heard things."

"I suppose," Donna said tensely, "if there were smoke around me you'd look for the fire?"

"Sure would—but you take care there's no smoke! Boy, look at that snow. If you're going to the Adamses, you'd better get started."

"Yes, I suppose so."

"I'll get the car out for you." He rose and went to the window. "I don't believe I'd go to-day, Honey. This may blow over, but it looks like we're in for a real blizzard."

"I'd rather go and get it over with."

"Well, you're the doctor." He left the room and she went upstairs to change her dress.

Any chance she had had to return to the Adams place on her way to town was gone. She dare not keep Con waiting in a snow storm. She had chosen the cemetery for a meeting place because it seemed the place where they would be least likely to encounter anyone whom she knew, but as Donna slipped from her house dressed in a dark, heavy wool it occurred to her that, of all places in the world, she had chosen the worst.

If she should be seen there with Con the worst construction possible would be given to the affair.

She heard the wheels of the automobile crunching on the hard ground outside, and the noisy chug-chug of the engine. Then Bill whistled. Donna snatched up her coat and hat, with a new desperation she planked the hat on her head and drew on her coat.

Bill helped her into the little car. "Don't stay long," he said, kissing her. "You aren't a crack driver at best and in the snow—"

"Mother hen!" she laughed.

She turned at the bend in the road to wave to him. He was still standing on the porch looking after her, the wind whipping his dark hair and making it stand on end. Something in his posture, as though he had been bent over her farewell and was taking a last, lingering look at her, caught at Donna's heart and almost stifled her breathing.

She thought, "Oh, God—suppose it's the last time I'll ever see him! Suppose this foolishness of mine should separate us! Suppose God, as a punishment for all the things I've done, should tear him away from me!"

Words that Grandfather Siddals had spoken about intentions being more important than actions seemed trivial now, though in the past she had used them to reassure her falling spirits over and over again. Every step she had taken that had drawn the net of intrigue tighter flashed across her memory.

There had been many opportunities to set herself right with the man she had married, but she had let all of them slip by. Cowardice had made her do it. Donna knew that now. Cowardice and the terrible fear that she might lose Bill's love. Oh, if she could only have understood before!

Each step in the angle of subterfuge had led to another. Each step made it harder to turn around and face the truth. And now the very things she had done to save her love might take it away from her!

She drove past the Adams farm house, scarcely conscious that she was passing it. Once the car skidded on the road, now covered with a thin layer of soft, slippery snow that was all the more treacherous because of the heavier coat of ice underneath. The cold wind and the driven snow flakes stung Donna's cheeks. The windshield needed constant wiping. She did not see Lem Holden's little car as they passed at the edge of town, nor hear his cheery greeting, "Hello, Mrs. Siddals!"

If she had, she might have been given the letter that would have spared both Bill and herself the countless hours of agony.

PROBATE LAW AMENDMENT

NEW HONGKONG ORDINANCE

The Gazette contains the draft of an Ordinance to amend the Probates Ordinance, 1897.

The object of this amending Ordinance is to substitute provisions, relating to the sealing of probates and letters of administration granted by British Courts outside the Colony, based on a model Ordinance enclosed with the Secretary of State's Circular despatch of the 16th August, 1934, for the provisions of Part VI of the Probates Ordinance, No. 2 of 1897, relating to the same subject.

Part VI of that Ordinance provided for the re-sealing in the Colony of probates and letters of administration (including confirmation in Scotland) granted by courts of probate in the United Kingdom, British Courts in foreign countries and British possessions, but in the latter case only where the legislatures of such possessions had made provision for reciprocity (see section 70 of Ordinance No. 2 of 1897).

In the said Circular despatch the Secretary of State pointed out that though the principle of reciprocity is embodied at present in the United Kingdom Legislation on the subject (see section 1 of the Colonial Probates Act, 1892), it is desirable to retain it in the Colonial legislation, which he suggested should follow in all parts of the Colonial Empire, the lines of the model enclosed with the Circular despatch.

The passing of this Ordinance will not alter very materially the existing practice of the Court in the Colony, as under the repealed provisions reciprocity has already been recognized and re-sealing of probates and letters of administration is allowed in the case of British courts in the United Kingdom, China, the Bahamas, Barbados, British Honduras, British Guiana, the Falkland Islands, Fiji, The Gold Coast, Grenada, Lagos, the Leeward Islands, Natal, New South Wales, New Zealand, Queensland, Saint Helena, St. Vincent, South Australia, The Straits Settlements, Tasmania, Trinidad, Bechuanaland Protectorate, Bermuda, British Columbia, Cape Colony, Manitoba, Neri Simbani, Nigeria, North West Territories, Nova Scotia, Ontario, Orange River Colony, P. M. S. S. (British New Guinea), Perak, Prince Edward Island, Selangor, South Rhodesia, Swaziland, Transvaal, Uganda, Western Australia, the State of Victoria and Ceylon.

The absence of Gibraltar, Malta, Jamaica, Kenya, Tanganyika Territory, Mauritius, the Seychelles and few others from the above list will doubtless be rectified when their legislatures have enacted legislation on the lines of the model Ordinance.

EXTENDING SERVICE

Auckland, Nov. 22. The New Zealand Government and the Pan-American Airways are scheduled to sign an agreement tomorrow establishing a semi-monthly airline service between the U.S. port in Papeete and Auckland, beginning at the end of 1935.

The American company consents that British air services shall have the right to use any airport on the Pacific Islands. In the event of the United States Government refusing such a permit, the agreement would be cancelled at a year's notice.—United Press.

EXPERTS MEET WEDNESDAY

CONTROL LEAGUE SANCTIONS

London, Nov. 22.

Senior Vasconcellos, Portuguese delegate to the League of Nations and President of the Committee of Eighteen, which has been called together for later in the week, when the working of the measures proposed by the Co-ordination Committee and put into execution on November 18, to meet at Geneva next Wednesday.

The experts may be in a position to report to the Committee of Eighteen, which has been called together for later in the week, when it is understood, it will discuss the further possibility of making additions to the list of key products the export of which to Italy is prohibited by the United States enforcing states. One of the products in question is petroleum, and the action of League States may be facilitated by the independent initiative of the United States Secretary of Interior, who is reported to have urged all companies in the United States voluntarily to curtail shipments to belligerents in order to comply in spirit, no less than in letter, with the Neutrality Act.—British Wireless.

FERRY PIERS

POWER TO MAKE REGULATIONS

The Gazette contains the draft of an Ordinance to amend the Ferries Ordinance, 1917.

Section 2 of this Ordinance amends the principal Ordinance by adding thereto a power to the Governor in Council to make regulations for ferry piers.

It is considered more appropriate that the power of regulating such piers should be exercised under an express enactment dealing with the subject rather than, as hitherto, under the general provisions of the Public Places Regulation Ordinance, No. 2 of 1870.

The amendment is effected by adding to the principal Ordinance, in the long title, the words "and ferry piers" by adding a new paragraph (d) to section 2 (1) defining "ferry pier" and by inserting a new sub-section (6A) in section 6 enabling the Governor in Council to make regulations for ferry piers.

KINGSFORD-SMITH MYSTERY

PLANE CONTINUES SEARCH

London, Nov. 22. Hopes for the discovery of the lost Australian airman, Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, aroused by reports that a ship off the west coast of Siam had been flares on Sany Island have not so far been substantiated.

An air liner from Singapore is searching the island from which the signals were seen.—British Wireless.

GRANTS OF LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION

Local estate to the value of $21,700 was left by Mrs. Lindamina Maria D'Azevedo Gomes, late of 10 Austin Avenue, Kowloon, who died at the above address on September 17, 1935. Letters of administration with the will annexed have been granted to Francisca Maria Gomes, eldest daughter.

Mrs. Helena Maria Yvanovich Noronha, who died at 17 Ashlev Road, Kowloon on January 8 this year, left local estate amounting to $4,700. A petition by Mr. Eduardo Antonio Noronha, eldest son, for letters of administration to the estate, has been granted.

Probate of the will of the late Mr. Pang Ken, foreman, who died at 38 Connaught Road Central, 1st floor, on March 13, 1935, leaving $49,300, has been granted to Pang Li-shi, widow.

Formerly a laundry owner at 34th Street, Northampton Avenue, Chicago, Jung Hoey, alias Cheung Ho, alias Cheung Tui-man who died on or about February 14, 1932, left local estate to the value of $8,200. Letters of administration have been granted to the widow, Cheung (or Jung) Fung-shue.
